

Webinar on

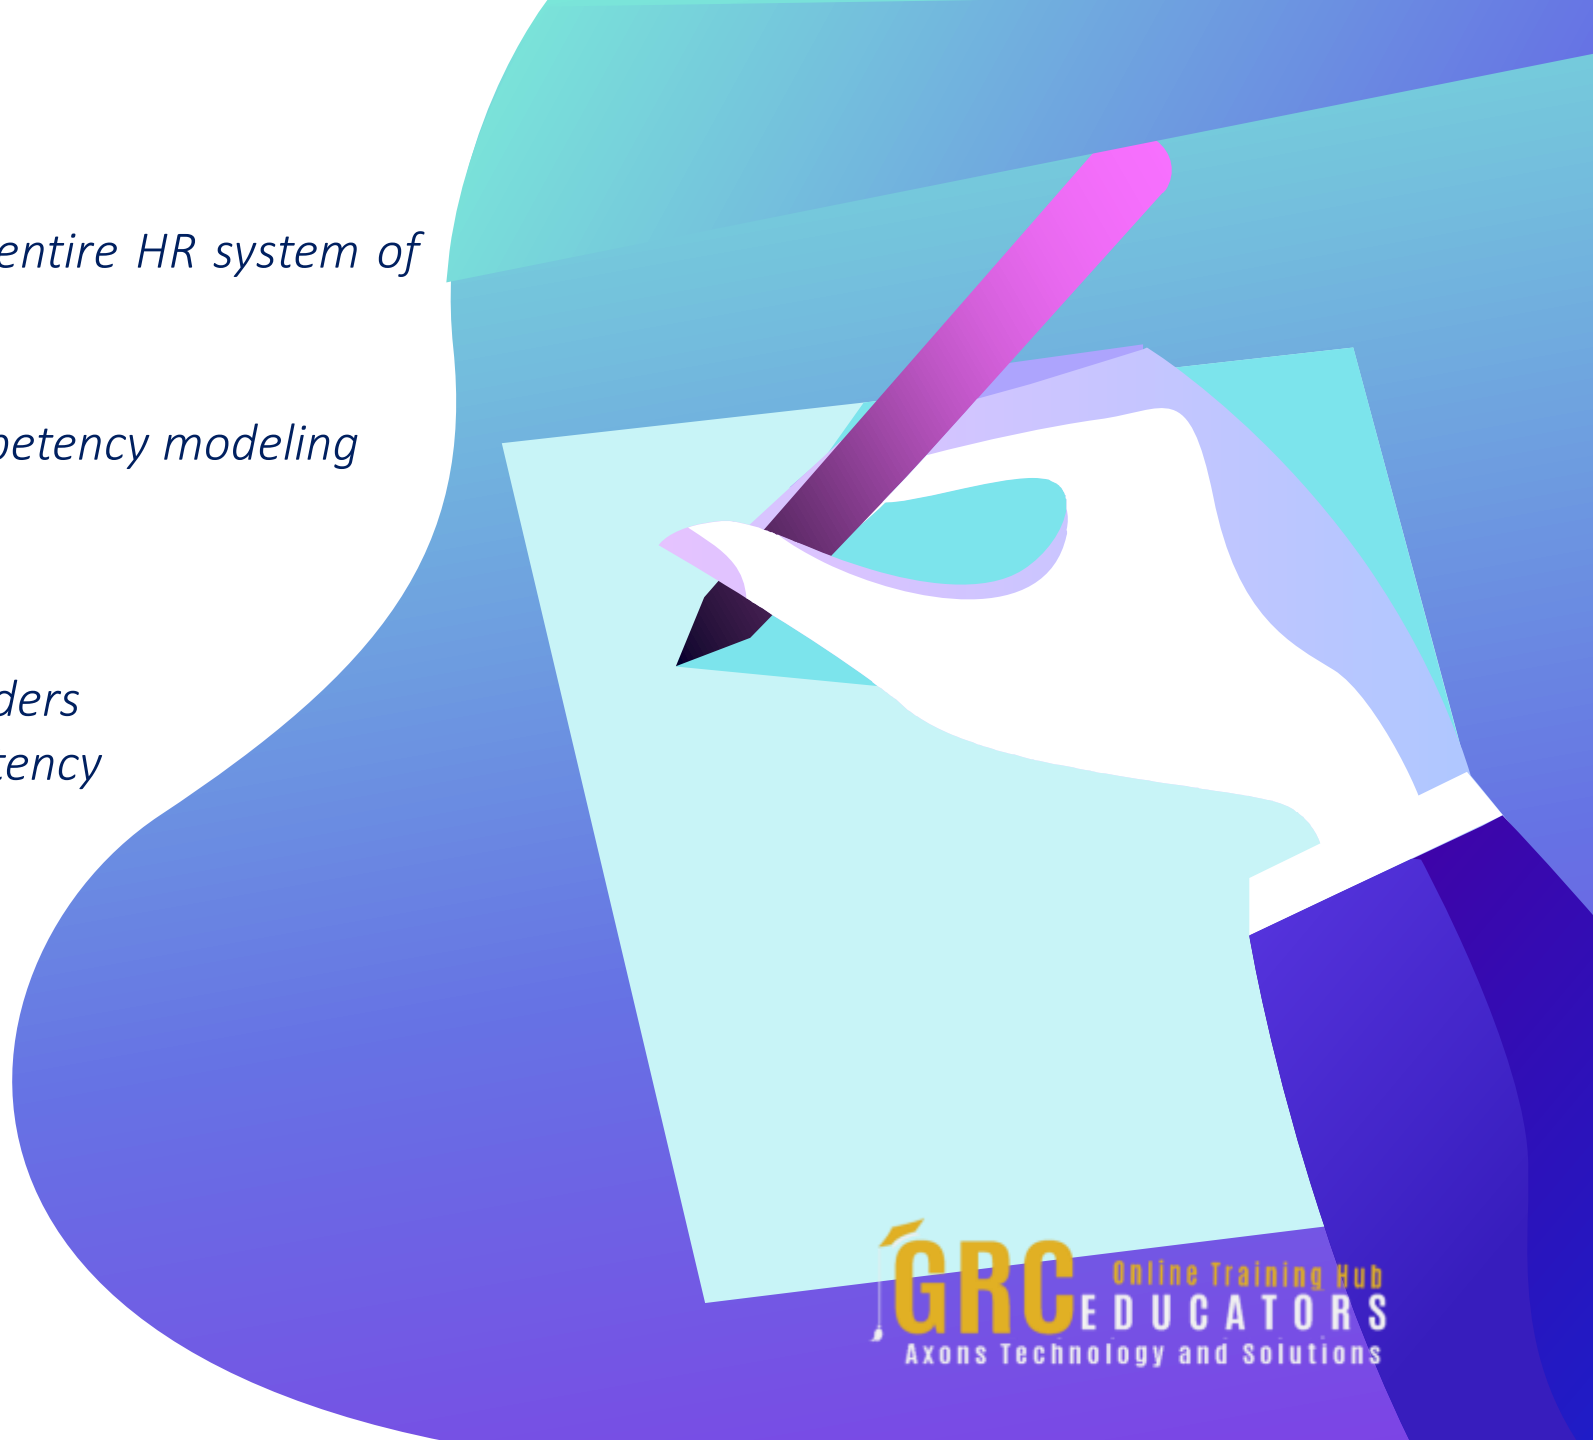

Using Competencies to Get Breakthrough Results

Date : July 28, 2021

• Areas Covered

- Defining competencies and describing how they are identified and used*
- What are competencies?*
- How are competencies better than job descriptions for pinpointing individual differences?*
- How can the use of competencies lead to higher productivity and lower costs?*
- How do competencies relate to talent?*
- What are the best ways to identify competencies so as to find individual differences leading to productivity?*
 - productivity?

- How can competencies guide the entire HR system of an organization?
- Summarizing best practices in competency modeling*
- What are the best practices?*
- Why should your organization's leaders care about best practices in competency modeling?*
- What tool can help you compare your organization against global best practices in competency modeling?*
- Questions and answers*
-

This webinar will review competency modeling and describe what competencies are, how to identify them, and how to use them.

PRESENTED BY:

William J. Rothwell, Ph.D., SPHR, SHRM-SCP, CPLP Fellow is a Professor in the Workforce Education and Development program, Department of Learning and Performance Systems, at The Pennsylvania State University, University Park campus. He is also President of his own consulting firms—Rothwell & Associates, Inc. and Rothwell & Associates, LLC. He has authored, co-authored, edited, or co-edited 111 books.

Date : July 28, 2021

Time : 01: 00 PM EST

Duration : 90 Minutes

Price: $149

Webinar Description

Most organizations today are trying to get more work done at a lower cost. One way to do that is to focus on individual productivity differences. According to research, some people are much more productive than other people. In fact, top performers may get as much as TWENTY TIMES the work results of average performers. How do they do that? The answer has to do with competencies. Competencies describe individuals who get results. This webinar will review competency modeling and describe what competencies are, how to identify them, and how to use them.

Who Should Attend ?

- HR Practitioners
- Trainers and Training Managers
- Operating Managers

Why Should You Attend ?

How productive is your organization over its competitors? Productivity differences result from differences in competencies. This session describes how to identify and use competencies to get breakthrough results.

To register please visit:

www.grceducators.com
support@grceducators.com
740 870 0321