Webinar Description

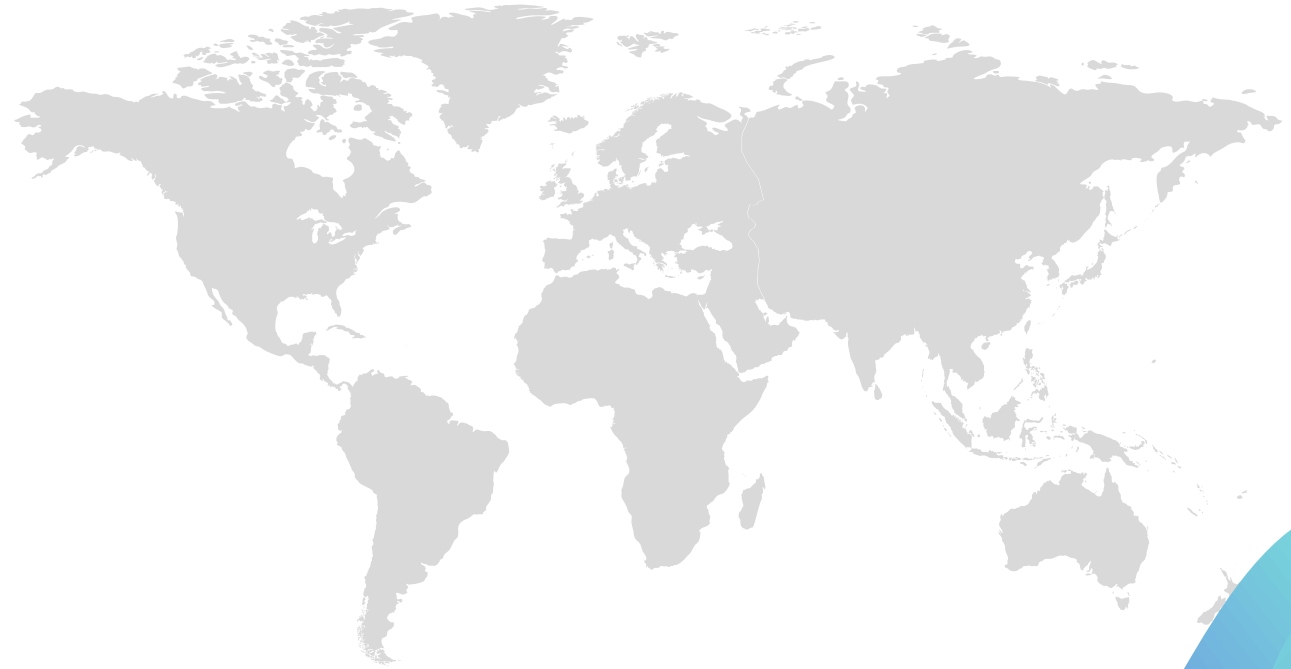

This program will explore the impact of the virus both at work and for individuals. We will explore the laws created in response to COVID-19, the laws that apply to any pandemic or illness, laws applicable to layoffs and furloughs, policy considerations and other best practices. We will discuss what employers need to do to maintain a safe and functional environment. Our program also will dispel the myths, discuss how group healthcare can be best used to address the ailment, and other essential practices in dealing with this shadowy disease. Don't miss this important program.

With the COVID-19 epidemic closing many employers down and creating havoc on every level of society, it is critical for employers who are still open to understanding their obligations during these challenging times.
