

Webinar on

Audit 2020: Keys to Becoming a Trusted Advisor

Learning Objectives

- Challenges faced in becoming a trusted advisor*
- What does a trusted advisor look like*
- Things to avoid in becoming a trusted advisor*
- What separates a trusted advisor from everyone else*

This webinar explores what it means to be trusted, how to give advice and what it takes to be an advisor.

PRESENTED BY:

Dan Clark has over 30 years of experience in the financial industry. 19 of that in Risk Management and Internal Audit where he established risk-based internal audit processes. He is an active speaker and contributor to industry conferences, publications, and think tanks. His book, Dare to Be Different, An Auditor's Personal Guide to Excellence has been well received in the industry. Dan has been a CAE for international banks, regional banks and was Director of Operations for Internal Audit at GE Capital. He now is providing Audit and Risk Advisory Services to various sectors of the market place.

On-Demand Webinar

Duration : 60 Minutes

Price: $200

Webinar Description

This webinar explores what it means to be trusted, how to give advice and what it takes to be an advisor. We start by looking at behaviors and organizational challenges that auditors exhibit or face. From expected roles and responsibilities to tradition to regulator dependence, auditors must deal with several influences that seem to deter progress in this area.

We then provide a profile of what a trusted advisor should look like which will help participants visualize exactly what they want to become. We will explore several of the behaviors and attitudes to avoid the development of trust and the role of a trusted advisor. Finally, we will let everyone know exactly what it is that sets trusted advisors apart from everyone else.

This is a must webinar for auditors who are on the cutting edge of their careers and for anyone who wants to make an impression with leadership through trust and good advice.

Who Should Attend ?

Auditors

Chief Audit Executives

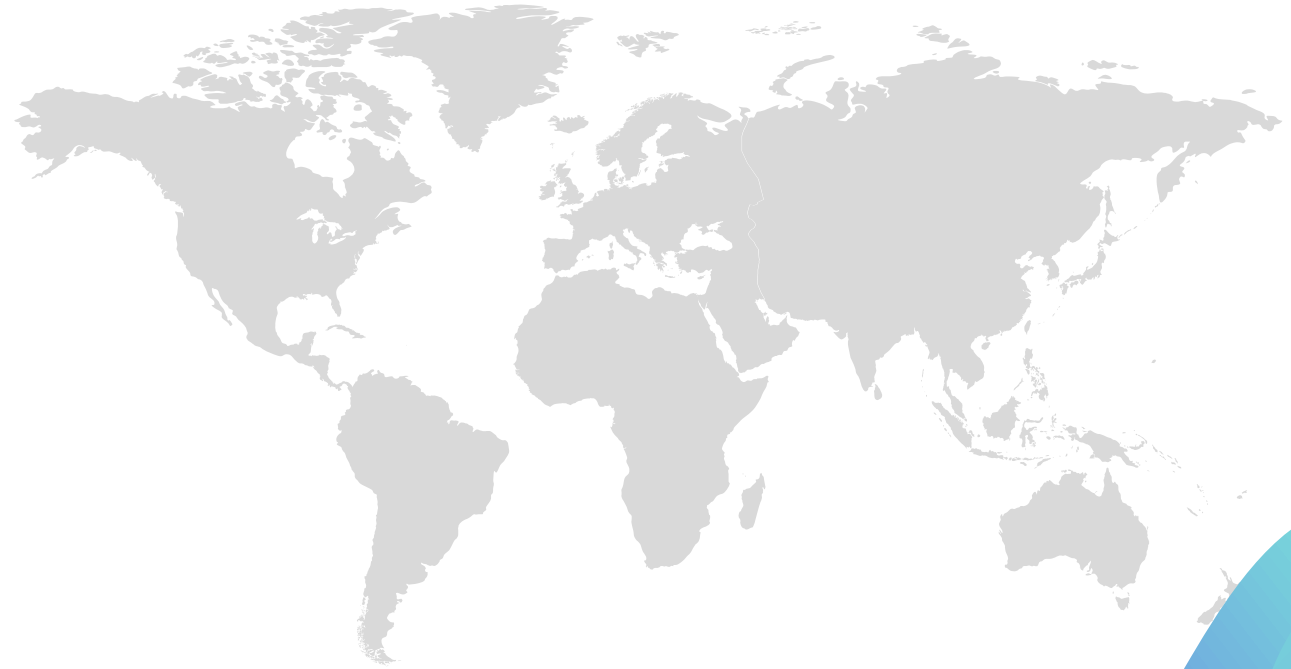

Members of the Board of Directors

External Auditors

Consultants

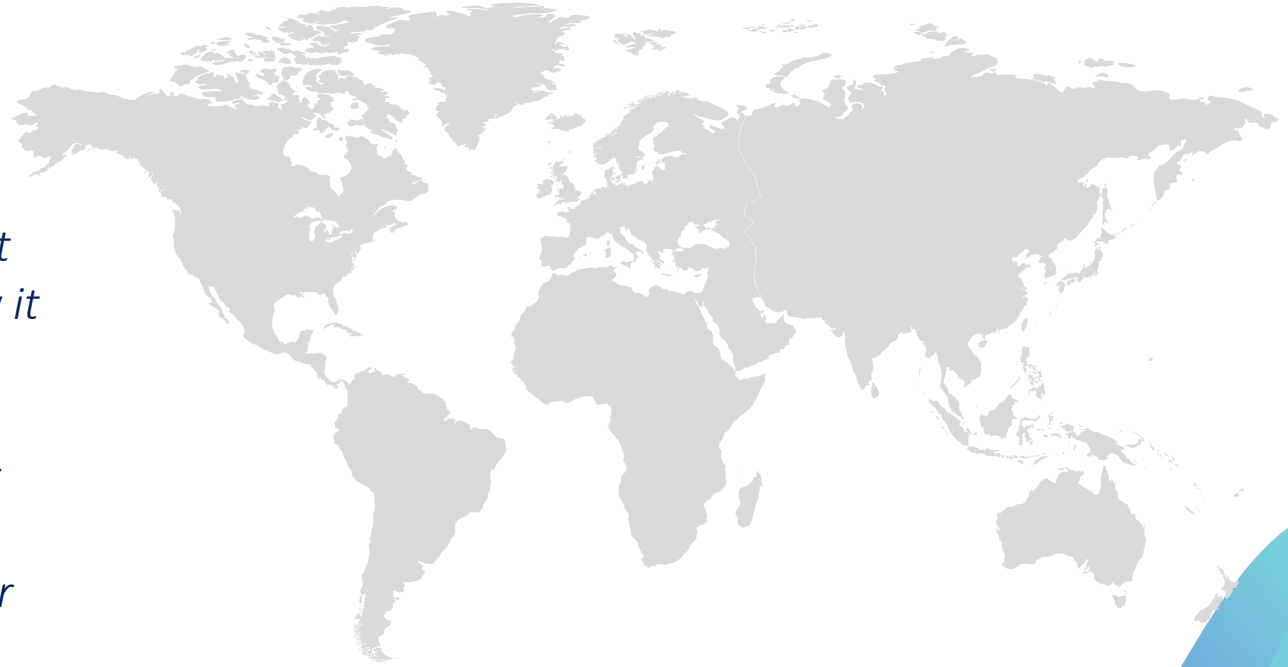

Senior Business Management

Executive Business Management

Why Should Attend ?

The Institute of Internal Auditors has encouraged auditors to become “trusted advisors” to their business clients. While this is a noble endeavor not all auditors understand what that means and how it looks. Further, business leaders and Audit Committee members are not yet sure how an auditor can become an advisor and maintain their independence. This webinar will answer those questions and more as we explore what an advisor is and how one can earn a business leader's trust.

To register please visit:

www.grceducators.com
support@grceducators.com
740 870 0321