

Webinar on

COVID-19 and Contracts

Learning Objectives

- What is a force majeure clause*
- When is it triggered*
- What are the risks associated with invoking the clause*

We will discuss how to handle contract cancellations because of the impacts of the coronavirus pandemic.

PRESENTED BY:

Mark Henriques has litigated contract cases for 27 years and brings a practical, litigation-oriented approach to drafting and negotiating contracts. Mark is a partner with Womble Bond Dickinson, a transatlantic firm with over 1000 attorneys, where he has practiced since 1991. Mark is a skilled trial lawyer who has successfully handled and tried cases in a variety of contexts ranging from breach of contract to class actions. He has experience in state and federal court in both North and South Carolina. Mark has successfully handled numerous trials, arbitrations, and mediations. Mark has served as the first chair in more than eight jury trials, five of which lasted a week or more.

On-Demand Webinar

Duration : 60 Minutes

Price: $200

Webinar Description

We will discuss how to handle contract cancellations because of the impacts of the coronavirus pandemic. We will focus on a little know contract clause called “force majeure” and look at how the clause might apply to situations involving the coronavirus. We will also discuss the concept of contractual “impossibility.”

Who Should Attend ?

Attorneys

Contract Managers

Why Should You Attend ?

Many companies experienced supply disruptions and all types of contracts have been cancelled due to COVID-19.

To register please visit:

www.grceducators.com

support@grceducators.com

740 870 0321