Why Should You Attend

This Webinar helps everyone involved in construction projects, particularly owners, make the very important decision of choosing the right contract and delivery methodically enough. Many owners pick the wrong type for the situation, usually misled by ignorance and motivated by a desire to save money, but they regret that later on when it is too late. This decision depends on the project type and circumstances as well as the owner's organization. The decision impacts many aspects of the project such as the cost, schedule, roles of project participants, risk allocation, and more.

Topic Background

The planning for any construction project starts not at the construction phase or even the contracting phase. It starts at the conception phase before even contracting with the designer. There are several types of contracts and delivery methods that an owner can choose from. Each is more appropriate in certain situations. Picking the right one is crucial for the owner because this choice impacts many factors including total cost and the risk taken by each party.
